

UKIYO-E HEROES BY JED HENRY

Artist Depicts Video Game Heroes in Japanese Woodblock Style for New Solo Exhibition

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Rickshaw Cart Woodblock

The process of Japanese woodblock printing dates back as early as the eighth century and is possibly best known for its use in the ukiyo-e genre often depicting great tales from history. Artist Jed Henry employs the epic style of ukiyo-e woodblock to interpret the heroic feats of classic video game characters. The result is a beautiful and poetic amalgamation of visual and popular cultures.

Nucleus presents an exhibition of this series while offering attendees the opportunity to purchase the artist's woodblock and giclée art prints for the first time. Learn more

About Us

Since October of 2004, Nucleus has strived to be a welcoming gathering place for the art-loving community by offering quality art, art-related goods, and rarities. Focusing primarily on gallery exhibits, we have also held benefit auctions, product signings, music events, and artist lectures. After three and a half years, we moved one block east to a much larger and more dynamic space. Still in the heart of quaint downtown Alhambra, we re-opened in March of 2008 with over 2,000 square feet of open gallery space, 1,000 square feet of shop/boutique, and over 3,000 square feet of studio/production space. Having exhibited both local artists and artists from abroad, and catering to an international customer base, we offer an extensive collection of original contemporary, illustrated, graphic, commercial, and narrative art. (All of which are carefully cataloged online on our website.) Always open to the public, we welcome art collectors and the general public alike to visit us six days a week.
